(Here ends the diary.)

The following is a letter from Eastlake to Miss Knox, bearing no date:

My Dear S.: I wrote you a long letter and sent it to you in Penn., where you gave me your address on one of your postal cards. I got your registered letter and left it in my jumper's pocket in the coal room over night, and we had an accident in which it was destroyed unopened, and four of the fellows and two officers are in the hospital. The reason it did not get to me was because I left home.

I signed for your letter myself, but the reason you did not recognize my handwriting is because I have blood poisoning in two fingers in my right hand, and it is hard to write with. I got it from rust in oil when I was cleaning up some things in the tool room. If you did not receive my letter I will write you again all I said in it. You should have gotten it after you sent me your second postal.

Excuse this quibble. I will keep you posted and write more of a detailed letter when my hand is better.

Affectionately as ever,
ROGER.

The following is a letter from Miss Knox to Eastlake, bearing no date:

Dear Roger: I feel very badly hurt about several things. Wish you could write and say whatever you did in letters that went astray. I am "on the list," though I am pretty wobbly to try and nurse. If they send me out of town I shall have to borrow the money for the ticket as no bank is accessible.

I feel pretty sick about the money question between Netta and one or two other things, and my having to stay so long in Colonial Beach (and getting less than no good of it) and now this loss.

I don't know when I can get away and I want to put my head down somewhere and cry and be comforted, and there is nothing more sympathetic than to put it down on than a towel rack (and towel racks are not cuddlesome) and I feel crazy and badly. Must close. I put this separately as you may want to give me rest of the letter. I told you I wouldn't write except in answer to letters from you, but I had to write this.

(Signed) You

Here is another letter from Miss Knox to Eastlake, bearing no date:

My Dear Roger—My last letter was so confused and you seemed to get so mixed when you read it that I am writing this again so you will get it straight, though I am sorry to send another letter to you for appearances sake. This will be especially personal. I want you to understand that I appreciate your position.

You wrote last when worried and excited and not knowing what to do, your one idea to be to get rid of the existing fuss, but two points are marked:

1. You gave no heed to the affect of your letter on me and expressed no regret.

2. You were simply anxious to avoid my coming down not to see me (one would suppose it was my plan, not yours for me to come).

Had you been thinking either of the affect on me or of your own disappointment at having to change your plans your instinct would have been to see me at once. I want, too, to say that I know I have been of late a trouble, not a pleasure. This has been partly due to bad health (much of which could have been avoided had you kept your word as to treatment, etc.), and partly to uncertainty and strain—all of which you could have obviated. If you want a person to be bright and merry you must give them some cause to be so. Hoping to hear from you soon.

SARA

Additional letters exchanged between Miss Knox and Eastlake will appear exclusively in The Times tomorrow.

Yeast

BAKER'S yeast contains one vitamin, and is unexcelled for many stomachs. VIM-O-GEN is not only pleasant to take and agreeable to even the weakest stomach, but it contains all three vitamins—and a science says all three are necessary to perfect health. VIM-O-GEN Yeast—pleasant and easy to take. If you are weak, undernourished, under weight, nervous, run down and "all in," give VIM-O-GEN a chance to prove how superior it is to ordinary yeast and other yeast preparations.

INSIST ON VIM-O-GEN YEAST

Look for the White and Blue package and beware of inferior substitutes and imitations. Absolutely Guaranteed. Your money back if not satisfied.

JOAN OF ARC STATUE TO BE UNVEILED HERE JAN. 6

The statue of Jeanne d'Arc, presented to this city by the Societe des Femmes Francaises, of New York, will be unveiled in Meridian Hill Park January 6, Col. C. O. Sherrill announced today.

Preparation of the pedestal, on the Sixteenth street side, just opposite the recently unveiled Dante statue, is practically completed and the statue is now being shipped here. It is a replica of the famed statue which stood at the entrance to the Rheims cathedral.

HUSBAND OF D. C. POLICE
MATRON DIES SUDDENLY

Found unconscious in his bed at midnight on the eighth floor of the McGinn building, 914 G street northwest, Montgomery Keys, fifty years old, husband of Estelle Keys, matron at the First precinct, died soon after being discovered. When a physician arrived from Emergency Hospital he pronounced the man dead from heart disease. Mrs. Keys heard choking sounds emanating from the room in which Keys lay, and when she investigated she found him senseless. Keys was employed at the McGinn building as an elevator man.

FRENCH NAVAL ATTACHE
HURT AS AUTO IS STRUCK

Capt. Jean Rigal, naval attache to the French Embassy, injured last night when his machine was run down by a high-powered car at Twenty-first street and Massachusetts avenue, was reported today to be not seriously injured. The police have been asked to look out for the driver of the machine which struck the attache's car shortly before 6 o'clock and sped away in the dark. Captain Rigal sustained a severe laceration of the right arm, was cut by flying glass and bruised. He was removed to the embassy.
